LETTER FROM THE CEO

2020 is a pivotal year across our country.

Census 2020 will count the number of people across the United States. This is important because the statistics from the census help determine how much federal aid cities like Baltimore will receive, as well as our state’s representation in Congress. I have been working closely with Complete Count Committee Chair Senator Barbara Mikulski to make sure the Pratt Library serves a vital role in helping with Census 2020.

For the first time ever, the census is being taken primarily online. We want to make sure that Baltimore households without internet access can come to their local library to fill out their census. Library staff are trained to assist people in taking the census and several computers at each of our locations will be designated specifically for that purpose.

In addition, we’ve added some part-time contract workers at several branches who are also trained. Our Mobile Services team is equipped with tablets so they can go into the community to help more people be counted. We’ll also have trained staff at the four laundromats that take part in the Wash and Learn Initiative.

We know getting to your local library during the work week can be challenging for some. That’s why we’ll be holding a series of Census Sundays. Three Sundays in April, several of our neighborhood branches will be open special hours so people can come and participate in Census 2020. We’ll also have Complete Count celebrations happening across the Pratt system.

I want to thank our partners at the Goldseker Foundation and the Baltimore Community Foundation who have made these initiatives possible. Together we can make sure that all of Baltimore gets counted.

Heidi Daniel
President & Chief Executive Officer

A Message from Senator Barbara Mikulski,
Chair of the Census 2020 Complete Count Committee

“All Baltimore City residents should come to their Census to help our City get its fair share of federal funding today, tomorrow, and for the next decade.

The results of our Census will determine the federal funds our City gets over the next 10 years to pay for needed programs, like: important education programs, including special needs education; school lunches; health programs, including Medicare and Medicaid; mass transportation; infrastructure repairs to our roads and highways; and more.

Help us make sure that in Baltimore City, everyone counts, and that everyone is counted.”

TERRY Mc MILLAN
It’s Not All Downhill From Here
Central Library, Central Hall
Wednesday, April 1, 7:00 p.m.

Featuring an unforgettable ensemble of strong, dynamic women, It’s Not All Downhill From Here shows it’s never too late to become who you want to be, that family is worth fighting for, and that our best days are yet to come. Terry McMillan is the #1 New York Times-bestselling author of I Almost Forgot About You; Waiting to Exhale; How Stella Got Her Groove Back; A Day Late and a Dollar Short; The Interruption of Everything; and the editor of Breaking Ice: An Anthology of Contemporary African-American Fiction.

AN EVENING WITH DAVID BROOKS AND D. WATKINS
Central Library, Central Hall
Tuesday, March 3 at 7:00 p.m.

Weave, Thread, and the Enoch Pratt Free Library are partnering to host an interactive conversation that will challenge participants to reimagine Baltimore as the protagonist in an upcoming novel. David Brooks and D. Watkins will guide a discussion that asks attendees to reflect on the city’s traits, talents, and traumas in order to draw conclusions about how we, as a community, can come together and strengthen connections in order to improve our heroine’s future.

David Brooks is an Op-Ed columnist for The New York Times as well as the Executive Director of Weave: The Social Fabric Project at the Aspen Institute. D. Watkins is editor-at-large for Salon. He’s also a college professor at the University of Baltimore and founder of the BMORE Writers Project.

FULL EVENTS CALENDAR AT prattlibrary.org

A Quick 3 with Matthew Swanson and Robbi Behr

1 What was an early experience where you learned that language and imagination had power?
Robbi: When I imagined myself a new brother and sister and they were way cooler than the ones I already had.
Matthew: When I read a poem by Walt Whitman and realized that, even though he died long before I was born, his words allowed me to see what he saw and feel what he felt. It was almost like time travel. That’s the power of language.

2 What is the first book that made you cry?
R: Bridge to Terabithia by Katherine Patterson. If you don’t already know why it made me cry, then you should never, ever read this book. It was the first time I felt betrayed by a book.
M: The Very Hungry Caterpillar by Eric Carle. Specifically, the part where he gets a stomachache after eating all that food. It’s tragic.

3 What fictional family would you be a member of?
R: The family in Stuart Little. It must be very interesting to live in a family that 100% accepts a mouse as a family member, no questions asked.
M: I’m pretty sure you’re either a racoon or a bat, and we accept you in this family. For those of you who don’t know, Robbi does her drawings from 10 p.m. – 4 a.m., which means she’s technically nocturnal. I would like to be a member of Ramona Quimby’s family. Actually, I would like to be Ramona if that job weren’t already taken.

Drag Queen Storytime
Central Library, Creative Arts Center
Thursday, March 5, 6:00 – 7:30 p.m.
Join Mayor Jack Young and listen to stories about just being you, told by Evon Dior Michelle and Pariah Sinclair.
Presented in partnership with LGBTQ Affairs, Office of the Mayor.

Q&A with Jabari Lyles, LGBTQ Affairs Liaison, Office of the Mayor

What work is LGBTQ Affairs in the Mayor’s Office doing on behalf of the city?
My responsibility is to advise and collaborate with the Mayor, city government, businesses and community to improve the quality of life for Baltimore’s lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer communities. Broadly, the vision for success is captured in the acronym S.U.S.H.I., which represents “safety, unity, stability, health and inclusion” for all LGBTQ people in our city.

Why are programs like Drag Queen Storytime so important?
Programs like these offer children and families in our city a way to celebrate diversity, affirm the power of self-expression, and honor the bravery and talent found in the LGBTQ community, all while having fun and practicing literacy.

What do you hope families get out of this program?
I hope families of all kinds will join us, and enjoy a chance to watch the beauty of young people practicing acceptance — something many adults still need to learn! I especially hope LGBTQ youth and LGBTQ-headed families enjoy seeing their identities and community celebrated.

LGBTQ+ 101 WORKSHOP
Central Library,
France-Merrick Creative Arts Center
Monday, March 9, 6:30 p.m.
The objective of this workshop is to promote progressive, significant changes in how the LGBTQ+ community is perceived and treated, with the conclusive goal of increasing support for an oppressed and often discriminated community.
The editors of Baltimore Revisited have revealed that Baltimore has been ground zero for a slew of neoliberal policies, a place where inequality has increased as corporate interests have eagerly privatized public goods and services to maximize profits. But they also uncover how community members resist and reveal a long tradition of Baltimoreans who have fought for social justice.

Chef, author, and television personality John Shields is the owner of the celebrated Gertrude’s Restaurant at the Baltimore Museum of Art. His most recent cookbook, The New Chesapeake Kitchen, is an urgent call to embrace new growing, producing, eating and cooking practices that are “Healthy for Bay and Body.” Light refreshments served. Sponsored by the Friends of the Govans Branch.

Begin Again is Eddie Glaude’s attempt, following James Baldwin, to bear witness to the difficult truth of race in America today. It is at once a searing exploration that lays bare the tangled web of race, trauma, and memory, and a powerful interrogation of what we all must ask of ourselves in order to call forth a new America.

Harriet Washington takes apart the spurious notion of intelligence as an inherited trait using copious data that instead point to a different cause of the reported IQ gap between African Americans and whites: environmental racism, a confluence of racism and other institutional factors that relegate marginalized communities to living and working near sites of toxic waste, pollution, and insufficient sanitation services.

CENSUS 101: WHY WE COUNT
Learn why the Census is done, how the country gears up, what questions are asked, and what the results mean.

Presented by Amanda Hughes, Assistant Manager of the Maryland Department.

Monday, March 2, 6:00 p.m.

What is the Census?
The Census is the constitutionally mandated counting of the population of the United States. The next Census occurs in 2020 beginning in April.

Why is it important?
The government uses Census data to determine which communities will get more than $675 billion per year in federal funds spent on things like schools, hospitals, roads, public works, and other vital programs. The results also determine the number of seats each state will have in the U.S. House of Representatives, and they are used to draw congressional and state legislative districts.

How does the Census work?
In mid-March, homes across the country will begin receiving invitations to participate in the 2020 Census. You can participate online, by phone, or by mail. Census workers also do outreach to people experiencing homelessness. Households that haven’t responded to the Census will be visited by Census workers between May and July. By December, the U.S. Census Bureau will deliver statistics to the President and Congress.

What’s new about the 2020 Census?
This is the first time the Census will be primarily done online through computer or smartphone. This makes the role of libraries even more vital to try and bridge the digital divide.

Who has access to my Census information?
The U.S. Census Bureau protects the confidentiality of anyone who takes the Census. It is illegal for the Census Bureau to share information about any individual or household. The Census Bureau does not share information with Immigration and Customs Enforcement, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Homeland Security, or the police.

What will the Library do to support the 2020 Census?
Staff of the Enoch Pratt Free Library will be trained and available to assist anyone who wants help completing the Census. Every Pratt Library location will have designated computers available for the completion of the Census. The Library will also host special programming around the Census and have special “Census Sundays” in several branch locations in April.
¿Qué es el Censo?
El censo es un mandato constitucional para contar a la población de los EE.UU. El próximo censo ocurrirá en abril del 2020.

¿Por qué es importante?
El gobierno utiliza la información recabada en el censo para determinar cuáles comunidades recibirán más de $675 mil millones de fondos anuales destinados a escuelas, caminos, hospitales, obras públicas y otros programas vitales. Además, los resultados del censo estipulan el número de representantes que cada estado tiene en la Cámara de Representantes de los EE.UU., así como también la asignación de distritos.

¿Cómo funciona el Censo?
A partir de mediados del mes de marzo 2020, todos los hogares del país serán invitados a participar en el censo. Usted puede participar por teléfono, por internet o por correo. Las personas encargadas de llevar a cabo el censo también se acercarán a las personas sin hogar. Si usted no responde, será visitado por un encuestador entre los meses de mayo y julio. En el mes de diciembre, la Oficina del Censo entregará el informe final del conteo al Presidente y al Congreso.

¿Qué hay de nuevo en el Censo del 2020?
Por primera vez, el censo podrá completarse por internet, y para este propósito, las bibliotecas son de gran ayuda para cerrar la brecha digital.

¿Quién tiene acceso a mi información personal?
La Oficina del Censo protege la confidencialidad de cualquier persona que participe en el censo. Queda prohibido por ley que la Oficina del Censo divulgue información sobre cualquier hogar o individuo. La Oficina del Censo no comparte información con el Servicio de Inmigración y Control de Aduanas, el Buró Federal de Investigaciones, el Departamento de Seguridad Nacional ni el Departamento de Policía.

¿Cómo apoyaré la biblioteca al Censo del 2020?
Los empleados de la biblioteca Pratt serán entrenados y estarán disponibles para asistir a todas las personas que requieran ayuda para completar el censo. Cada sucursal de la biblioteca Pratt contará con computadoras designadas para su uso. La biblioteca tendrá eventos relacionados al tema como los “Domingos de Censo” durante el mes de abril en varias sucursales.
